

Video: How lasers can track the spread of cancer

May 27 2022, by Cam Sleeper

---

Credit: Northeastern University

The Biomedical Optics Research Group at Northeastern University, led by Professor Mark Niedre is working on an innovative solution to tracking the spread of cancer—lasers.

This technique would no longer require blood draws and could be adapted to other types of blood analysis. The hope is that this technology can be turned into a wearable device, to help cancer patients with a faster diagnosis, and better prognosis when seeking treatment.

Provided by Northeastern University

Citation: Video: How lasers can track the spread of cancer (2022, May 27) retrieved 3 October 2023 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2022-05-video-lasers-track-cancer.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.